Join us for a compelling two-day seminar that explores the intersection of modern grading practices and teaching students tenacity and responsibility. We'll explore the burning issues of grading, including: re-do's/re-takes, averaging or not, formative/summative/common/alternative assessments, descriptive feedback, marking homework, gradebooks/report cards, evidence of mastery, zeroes on the 100-point scale, extra credit, grading special education students in the regular education classroom, and much more.

Plus, we'll look at how to help students find the reserves to stick with projects and tasks, be they physical or intellectual. We can't motivate students, as that comes from within them, but we can create an environment in which they want to invest time and energy dedicated to learning. We'll understand that there is no such thing as laziness; our students want to do demanding, complex learning, and they want to persevere! This generation is more than ready for what it takes to make the world their own. Let's light this rocket!
