

RESP Pathways to Reading (PTR)

PTR bridges the gap between research and the classroom helping to prevent reading difficulties before they begin in K-2 and addressing decoding needs of striving readers in grades 3 and above.

2015-2023 Pathways to Reading (PTR) Fast Facts
Year	Participants	School Districts
2015	18	7
2016	47	10
2017	22	8
2018	19	10
2019	36	6
2020	11	8
2021	39	9
2022	9	6
2023	12	3

The PTR 5-day training is designed to assist the teacher in understanding phonemic awareness and phonics and the relationship to the development of reading and spelling preventively and remedially. Participants learn about recent research findings and conclusions. They learn how to assess and teach phonemic awareness and phonics and integrate the instruction with the other research-based components of fluency, vocabulary and comprehension. Participants learn how to differentiate and pace small group instruction as they provide tier 1 through tier 3 support in an MTSS/RTI model.

Administrator & Teacher Comments About Pathways to Reading

“We have the support of the presenter. She made it clear we could call her anytime with questions!”

“We are excited to begin our journey with this program.”

RESP

Roughrider
Education
Services
Program